Predict the winners – get a £10 Amazon Voucher!

<http://live.cgcu.net> – College news, as it happens

There are so many candidates in the sabbatical elections this year, including newcomers to the Union political scene, that we thought we'd help you out.

On the other page is a sheet of photographs, one for each candidate (including RON). Take the sheet along to hustings and keep it with you for campaigning week, in case you get collared by someone offering leaflets/sweets/baked beans/doughnuts: it should make it easier to identify them.

On the 23rd February, when voting opens, decide how you think each candidate will do and rank them in order, with “1” being the winner. Write your ranking in the boxes under each photo so you remember.

To enter the competition, email a list of candidates for each position in the order you have ranked them to editor@cgcu.net. See opposite for an example.

Results

The person who predicts the election results most accurately will win a £10 Amazon voucher.

We will start with the 1st placed candidates and select everyone who predicted them correctly. We then move on to the 2nd placed candidates and eliminate anyone who got that wrong. So on until we've reached the loser in the Presidential election or there's only one person left.

If more than one person is left at the end, the winner will be randomly selected.
